Urban Space on the Frontier: The Development of Sapporo in Meiji Japan Ethan Barkalow, Class of 2018

Through the Goldsmith Adams Research Award, I had afoldoexperience of research and language study in Japan this summer.eight weeks lived with a host family in Hakodate, Japan and enrolled inhydapanese language courses. In the time immediately preceding and following this language programmathered invaluable primary source material with which I will use to pursue a historyohors project on the urban development of Sapporo in Meiji Japan(1868-1912).

The eight

Faculty Mentor: Sakura Christmas Assistant Professorof History and Asian Studies Funded by the Goldsmith Adams Research Award