

Applications of Energy Data Compression in Smart Cities

Charlotte Gehrs, Class of 2024

As homes and buildings with smart meters become more prolific, utility companies may be overwhelmed by the resulting volume of energy data. Smart meters can collect data as often as multiple times a second from each individual electric device in a building (such as lights, dishwashers, and washing o and ~i ih